

Join the RSCM

Become a member of the RSCM and you'll become part of an organisation dedicated to providing the resources to train and develop church musicians and to promote the use of music in worship throughout the world.

Already we have provided the inspiration and practical guidance to help nearly 6,000 affiliated churches and schools and more than 3,000 Individual Members and Friends to realise their personal goals for music in worship.

Our members may be drawn from different denominations and parts of the world, they may worship in different ways, they may enjoy different musical styles, but what they do have in common is the belief that good music, used effectively, can greatly enrich Christian worship.

How to join as an Affiliate

To become an Affiliate of the Royal School of Church Music, churches and schools appoint a representative who will be the 'correspondent' for RSCM purposes. It is the responsibility of the correspondent to ensure that the opportunities and benefits offered by RSCM membership are made available to their school or church community by circulating the magazine and other RSCM information.

It is also the responsibility of the correspondent to inform the RSCM administration centre if there are any changes of circumstance: address, title or new correspondent details, as applicable.
